

Tax Credit for Recent Graduates Working in Remote Resource Regions

Complete this form if you are claiming the tax credit for recent graduates working in remote resource regions on line 392 of your income tax return.

You can claim this credit if:

- You received eligible salary or wages during the year concerned.
- You were resident in a remote resource region of Québec on December 31 of the year concerned (if you are completing this form for a person who died during the year, the person must have been resident in a remote resource region of Québec on the date of death).
- One of the following situations applies to you:
 - You began to hold eligible employment (as defined on page 4) in the 24 months following either the date on which you successfully completed training leading to a recognized diploma or the date on which you obtained the diploma under a master's or doctoral program requiring the writing of an essay, dissertation or thesis.
 - You were entitled to this credit for a previous year, you held eligible employment in the year concerned and you were resident in a remote resource region of Québec throughout the period from the end of that previous year to the end of the year concerned.

Make sure you read the general information on page 4 before completing this form.

Your title or position

Date on which you began to hold the employment

If applicable, enter the most recent year for which you were entitled to this credit, prior to the year concerned.

IMPORTANT

If you held other eligible employment, the aforementioned requirements must be met for each such employment in order for you to be entitled to the credit for the eligible salary or wages from each employment. Also, you must enclose a separate copy of this form for each such employment; make sure that parts 2, 3 and 4 are carefully filled out on each copy.

4 Cumulative amount of the tax credit

Check the box next to the statement below that corresponds to your situation. If neither applies, leave the boxes unchecked.

- ☐ You began to hold the eligible employment after March 20, 2012, and within the 24-month period following either:
- the date on which you successfully completed training leading to a recognized post-secondary diploma; or
 - the date on which you obtained a recognized diploma under a master's or doctoral program requiring the writing of an essay, dissertation or thesis.
- ☐ You meet all four of the following conditions:
- You began holding the eligible employment after March 20, 2012.
 - In a previous year, you were entitled to the tax credit for eligible employment entitling you to a cumulative amount of $10,000.
 - You were resident in a remote resource region of Québec throughout the period beginning at the end of the previous year and ending at the end of the year for which this form is being filed.
 - The employment held is related to the field of specialization in which you obtained a recognized post-secondary diploma.

If you checked a box, the cumulative amount to which you are entitled under the tax credit is $10,000.

If you checked neither box but you hold eligible employment, the cumulative amount to which you are entitled under the tax credit is $8,000.

Eligible employment

An office or employment the duties of which are ordinarily performed by an individual in a remote resource region¹ in the following circumstances:

- the individual works for a business that their employer carries on in the region; and
- the individual works in the field of specialization in which they received the training leading to the awarding of a recognized diploma.

Eligible salary or wages

The income earned by an individual from all eligible employment in the year.

To calculate your eligible salary or wages, add the salary, wages and other benefits you received from all eligible employment. Then subtract the portion of the deductions you claimed in respect of your eligible salary or wages on lines 205 and 207 of your income tax return.

1. You can still claim the tax credit even if, unlike other employees of the business you work for, you must travel outside the remote resource region to ordinarily perform your duties. However, you must meet all the other eligibility requirements.
